POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Political balloons are going up in all directions, just like it was an election year, instead of a year ahead of time—and some of the things one sees in the sky are very interesting, indeed.

Here are some of the balloons currently drifting across the horizon:

Dr. Walter Scott Franklin of Santa Barbara, who won the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor in 1938, but was nosed out at the final, is an avowed candidate for governor next year. The good doctor, who polled more than a million votes at the VTCR election, is the first announced candidate for the Republican gubernatorial toga in '42.

Gov. Olson, whose stock was very low a year ago, is now flying high, wide and handsome, hoping to ride in for a second term, due to the national emergency and the traditional disinclination of American voters to switch horses in the middle of the stream.

Attorney General Earl Warren, the GOP's strongest bet at this writing, is tending to his official chores and saying nothing. His friends, however, are releasing his balloons for him—and Warren is still the biggest name in the Republican sky.

Balloons are also being sent up for Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles as a Republican aspirant, but while Mr. Bowron was re-elected a few weeks aback, his showing wasn't as impressive as the GOP scouts had wished for. There's considerable Republican activity, too, in behalf of Wallace Ware, former member of the state railroad commission, who now names L. A. as his home base.

In the Democratic sky, Senator Robert W. A"Bob"Q Kenny of Los Angeles, is floating around with the greatest of ease. Mr. Kenny, it is generally conceded, might have a good chance to beat Governor Olson in his own party, but dextrous, genial "Bob" may pull out of the gubernatorial fray and run for Attorney General if Warren should make formal announcement for governor. ....

If Kenny decides to run for governor or attorney general, you can put this down in your dope book—that Assemblyman Jack Tenney will run to succeed him as Los Angeles county's member of the state senate. Tenney's campaign slogan is: "After Kenny, why not Tenney?"

Assemblyman Lee T. Bashore of Glendora is all set to take out after the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor, and Senator Oliver J. Carter of Redding, who was previously mentioned for the state board of equalization, is said to be playing with the idea of running against Lieutenant Governor Ellis Patterson for the Democratic nomination.

The air, in fact, is just full of balloons, with more going up daily, and political winds are blowing up from every corner of the state.

Ace Comedy Team Sparks Ice Follies

You've heard about such famous combinations as Ham'n Eggs, Scotch'n Soda, Cops'n Robbers and Pen'n Ink.

Now meet another noted combine, the comic skating team of Shipstad and Johnson, famed funnymen of the Ice Follies of 1941, now playing nightly at Winterland, in San Francisco.

Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson are co-owners of the amazing figure skating carnival, with Roy Shipstad. All three skate in the ice extravaganza, as well as supervise the production and business end of the show.

Eddie and Oscar are the Damon and Pythias of the figure skating world. They have been skating together for 12 years and are partners on and off the ice.

Their careers began in St. Paul where the two were featured skaters with amateur skating carnivals. But skating was only a side-line. Both boys had regular jobs and took leaves of absence from their daily work whenever a skating show appeared on the horizon.

Finally the day came when Eddie and Oscar decided to back to the limit their idea of a figure skating show. That was in 1936. Each year since then the Ice Follies has grown and reached additional heights of success.

Despite the demands placed on the two by the triple-duty of business, teaching and performing, Eddie and Oscar thrive on the busy diet.

They are acclaimed as the greatest comedy team ever developed in the United States. In the years of partnership the two have perfected the art of comedy on skates to the 'nth degree.

Shipstad and Johnson yesterday drew attention to the first Ice Follies matinee, which is to be held Saturday, July 12, at Winterland. Another matinee is scheduled for the following Saturday afternoon to accommodate the many out-of-towners who have made inquiry.

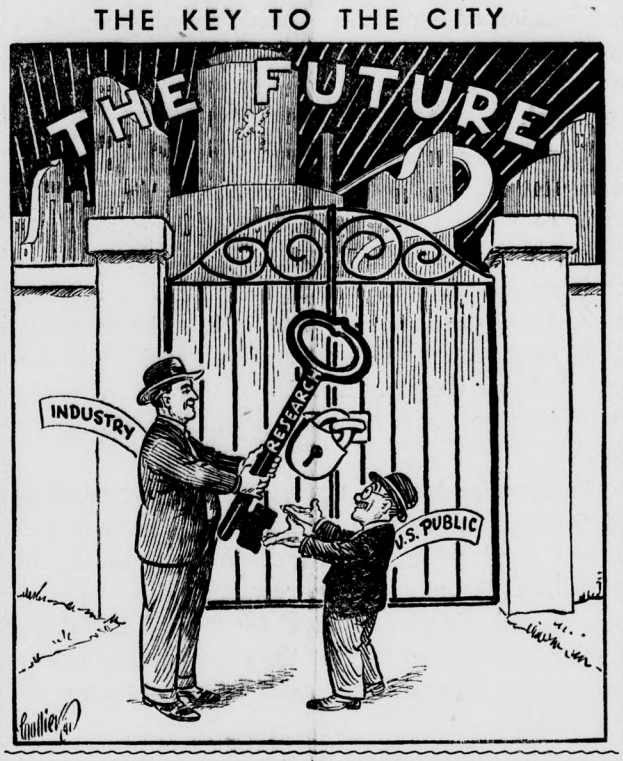

Sanitary District Taxes Lowered

A welcome piece of news to tax payers of the Campbell Sanitary district is the announcement that the taxes for the fiscal year beginning 41-42 will be five cents less than in this last year.

The rate on bonds has been reduced 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, but five cents is added on maintenance leaving a net reduction of five cents. Bond assessment is 85 cents. Maintenance, 30 cents, a total of $1.15 per $100, assessed valuation.

The Milton Herold family attended Alameda county's fair at Pleasanton July 4.

A. This bond is proof that you have loaned money to the United States government for national defense. Your bond bears interest at the rate of 2.9 % a year, if held to maturity (ten years).

Q. Why should I buy Defense Bonds?

A. Because money talks. To dictators it speaks defiance. To friends of freedom, it says, "Here's my hand!"

NOTE:—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Lambs Home From Jaunt To East Coast

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lamb returned yesterday from a four and a half weeks trip by auto to New York and a tour of the Atlantic coast from Maine to the southern states. The special object of the trip was to visit their niece, Miss Jean Holloway who has attained a national name as a radio script author.

For the summer she is under contract to write for the Columbia network, with her own office and assistant. In the fall her position as writer of the Kate Smith program is open if she wishes to take it.

The Lambs returned via the Lincoln highway across the continent. They encountered 108 degrees temperature at Auburn as they came down from the Sierras.

Dean Chamberlin, journalism, dramatic and English teacher at the Campbell High school is reported very ill in the Chico hospital. Mr. Chamberlin was released from the hospital last week after having pneumonia but is confined again with the flu.

Local Players Review Vehicles At Tues. Meeting

Members of The Footlighters met in the cool and attractive patio of the Archie Keesling home on Rincon avenue for a regular session Tuesday evening.

During the business meeting several plays were reviewed by Jack Murdock, and two were selected for production in the near future. Several others are up for consideration. Four new members were voted into the organization, Arlene Murdock, Loren Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Becker. Mr. Becker is a new faculty member of the Campbell Grammar school.

Lenore Weaver, chairman of the entertainment for this meeting, gave two humorous readings and started a game of "baseball" at which Jack Murdock's Alleycats defeated Walter Smily's Footlighters by a score of 15 to 10.

Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mabel Keesling, Dave Sanders and LBen Howard.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, August 12.

Eulah Hook Clark Bride of Franklin Blaine

John Franklin Blaine and Eulah Hook Clark were married in Carson City, Nevada, Tuesday, July 8.

After the ceremony they planned to spend a honeymoon vacation at Lake Tahoe and Yosemite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hook of South Second street. She graduated from Campbell high school and after acquiring teaching credentials taught in other cities before returning to Campbell to join the faculty of the grammar school, where she is still engaged.

The bridegroom is a native of Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Blaine, South Second street.

He was a popular member of his high school class and after graduation entered his father's grocery store. When Carl Field succeeded to the ownership of the business Franklin continued as one of the staff, having charge of the vegetable department.

Both of the just-weds are well known and have a host of friends to greet them in their home, 31 South Fourth street where they will be established after August 1.

Kiwanians Trek To Boulder Creek For Joint Meeting

Twenty-five members and guests of the Kiwanis club motored to Boulder Creek Wednesday evening where they met with the San Lorenzo Valley club at Brookdale lodge.

Featured on the evening program which the local club presented was Stephen Merrill who sang several numbers, accompanied by his father, Dr. W. I. Merrill.

Miss Josephine Barbano will furnish the musical portion of the entertainment and Ira Abbott will emcee for the program.

A daughter, Betty Louise, was born June 27 at O'Connor sanitarium to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Holt of Dillon avenue.

Rites for H.V. Archibald Held Saturday

Final rites for Hedley V. Archibald were held Saturday afternoon in San Jose, conducted by the Rev. J. H. Bennett.

Mr. Archibald was born in Middle Musquodoboit, Nova Scotia over 80 years ago, where his father ran a grist mill. In those days grain was ground between mill stones and as a young man Hedley learned the art of "dressing" the mill stones.

He spent some time in Lowell, Mass., before coming to Soquel, Calif., in 1893. On March 19, 1889 he was marmied to Lorinda L. Gatchel of Glenholm, Colchester county, Nova Scotia, who passed away in Campbell nineteen years ago.

He purchased an orchard home on San Jose-Los Gatos road in 1898 and the family moved here to remain. He continued to care for his orchard until the past several months when he became seriously ill.

He had two sons Roy Gatchel and the late George Chester Archibald, and grandchildren Winfield L., Mrs. Lillian Behr and Hedley C. Archibald. Brothers P. J. and B. W. Archibald are still living in Soquel.

"Father Archibald" as he was affectionately referred to was a man of the finest type of Christian gentleman, serving for many years as an active deacon in the Congregational church and after his health began to fail was made a life deacon.

He was an honored member of Charity Lodge No. 362, F. & A. M., and a past master of Orchard City Grange.

Old friends, members of his fraternal orders and of his church acted as pall bearers, Dr. A. B. Townsend, George S. Robson, George Parso, Robert Scholz, Stanley Smith and Fred James.

Interment was in Los Gatos cemetery.

The Methodist parsonage adjoining the church is being extensively repaired and some alterations made before the newly appointed pastor, the Rev. Donald H. Baldwin, and family take possession. In the interim they are having a vacation and the Methodist church is uniting with the Congregational church for morning services, and in August the order will be reversed.

The Rev. J. H. Bennett has been attending special evening lectures on topics of International Relations being given at Mills college and Berkeley.

Mrs. J. D. McFarlane who is in Mt. Zion hospital in San Francisco has been visited several times by the Rev. J. H. Bennett, who reports that she will return in a week or ten days.

PROTECT THIS TREASURE!

Communities, gutted by catastrophic fire, have soon after swiftly risen from the ashes as if by magic. But forests consumed by fiery, swirling tempests of flame remain stricken for long years after, with their charred stumps and their patchwork of criss-crossed, black trunks resembling a nightmarish graveyard. Spectral forests and burned-over slopes are the forerunners of floods, erosion and barren earth.

We want no such waste lands in California. Every camper, hunter and tourist visiting the State's great timberland zones need only follow the simplest of rules to protect forests against their greatest enemy, man-made fires caused by carelessness. Never throw away a lighted match or burning cigaret butt. Never leave a campfire unattended without dousing it with water and covering it with earth. An extra few second's thoughtfulness is all that is needed to safeguard those perishable treasures which are the forest temples of California's outdoor wonderland.

WHEN ADE IS AID

When it comes to protective foods rich in vitamins, the toddling youngster and the working adult stand together. The twenty and forty year olds, like the two year olds, say government nutrition experts, need a minimum of a pound and a quarter weekly of citrus fruits—a fact which should require little emphasis in a great citrus state like California.

However, if during these warm summer days we help ourselves to an extra glass of cool lemonade, we'll be doing more than ourselves a favor. We'll be doing a good turn for the California lemon grower who, with an exceptionally big yield this spring, has called upon retailers everywhere to give his product a lift in every possible way. Right now is the time when lemonade is real aid, not only to health but to the producers of one of California's most famed fruit crops.

WHAT'S A BEACH WITHOUT A HANDSOME LIFEGUARD?

On the theory, perhaps, that one romance-proof lifeguard is worth ten young Adonises who forget time—to say nothing of tide—whenever confronted with feminine loveliness in a one-piece bathing suit, some beaches have announced stonily that their lifeguards this summer are hired with an eye to utility only.

The news will be hailed with enthusiasm by thousands of ordinary men who have got used to slinking away to sit under a striped umbrella every time the bronzed young god of the beaches starts flexing his muscles. But the girls—well, a beach without a lifeguard with the profile of a Barrymore and the torso of a gladiator, is just a beach without a lifeguard—if you follow us.

Maybe there's no connection, but it looks as though some of the travel bureaus have noted the situation and are doing their best to take advantage of it. At any rate, they published the following information today:

In the gay Panama Canal zone—a brief two-week vacation away—there is still only one girl to every five men. Samoa has some fine beaches, but for every three men playing thereon, there's only one girl to play, too. And Hawaii, with her sparkling, sunny surf, has only one woman for every two men.

Under the circumstances, if it's going to cause a general feminine exodus from the beaches, perhaps the handsome lifeguard—the pulse and heartbeat of any seaside resort—may be expected back next season.

PLANES OVER AMERICA

Perhaps you have noted of late the increasing number of planes overhead. If you haven't, you soon will, for America is sprouting wings—and California is home base for the nation's aviation industry.

Unless Germany wns the battle of the skies before autumn, all chance of such a victory will be gone, in the opinion of American experts, for this country's war-plane production finally is going ahead at such a terrific pace that no nation on earth will be able to match it.

German war-plane production is officially estimated at from 1500 to 2000 combat ships a month, and the highest monthly output of American military planes, thus far, was 1400, of which 400 were trainers. But by the first of the year, barring new strikes or acute shortages of materials, the American airplane industry will have achieved such mass output that one company in this country will virtually duplicate the entire German production of combat planes.

Planes over America are a good omen, not a cause of foreboding, for war planes—if produced in sufficient number—may insure continued peace in the Americas. Dictators, who are unmoved by right or reason, are still respectful of force—and this country's winged might may be the most potent force in bringing to an end the present world conflagration.

DEATH OF A GENIUS

With a broken heart and a blighted genius, 80-year-old Ignace Jan Paderewski, known for 60 years as the greatest pianist of his time, is dead.

Beloved throughout the world for his art, Paderewski's memory will be reverenced by millions of music lovers; he was a great artist and a great man. In recent years he also was a very unhppy man. His native Poland, for which he strove through the years to gain independence, he left at last under the heel of hated dictatorship.

Paderewski's name will live not only in the pages of musical history; it will go down, too, as that of a great statesman—a man who gave his life and his fortune to his country. During the first World war he worked unceasingly to organize aid for Poland, financing much of the work himself. After that war he worked for and won recognition for a free Poland. And since his country was invaded by Hitler two years ago, he gave unstintingly of his time and energy to bring her succor.

The great virtuoso accomplished much for the world of music and much for the welfare of his own people. Paderewski will be remembered best as a man who brought joy to millions—a truly great pianist who bestowed his musical gifts on the world with enthusiasm and grace. And he will be remembered, too, as a truly noble patriot.

IT DOES HAPPEN

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly;
You can hunt till you get dizzy, but it homehow will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses it is strange how still it keeps;
It shrinks down into a corner, and it never stirs or peeps,
That typographical error, too small for human eyes;
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.
Then the boss, he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans;
The copy reader drops his head upon his hands and moans—
The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,
But that typographical error is the only thing you see.—Eighth Ave. Temple News

New Glass-Pack for Coffee Aids Pan-American Goodwill

Adoption of Jar Aimed to Further Acceptance of Trade Commodity

NEW YORK—Coffee arriving in this coffee port the "South American way" is going out to American housewives in an "All-American" way.

This has just been revealed with adoption of American-made duraglas coffee containers for vacuum packing of one of the most popular brands—Del Monte. The move was made by the California Packing Corporation which centers its coffee roasting and packing activities in a huge plant overlooking the waterfront in Brooklyn.

Coffee packed under this brand name is a blend of choice South and Central American coffees, officials pointed out, adding that American coffee consumption has steadily added to the strengthening of the bonds of friendship between North and South America.

Keeps Coffee At Its Freshest

Development of the new lightweight glass coffee containers, recently announced, led to their adoption by this large scale packer. Reasons for its practicality are, first, it is ideally suited to vacuum packing which insures and protects the freshness of the coffee; and second, the lightness of the glass has cut shipping costs to a minimum.

In addition, the new container boasts eye-appeal and durability as well as a re-seal feature in a screw cap which enables the coffee to be kept at its freshest in the home.

Qualities stressed by experts in the buying and packing of coffee in New York are that the coffee must be of an ideal size, grade and character, and then must be given a proper roast. The coffee is packed here within a few minutes after being roasted.

Two grinds, heaviest in demand by American housewives, are being packed in the new glass containers. These are regular and drip grinds. The coffee is being put up in one and two-pound containers. The regular grind is the correct one for percolator and boiling. Drip grind is suited for drip pots and vacuum glass coffee makers.

Senorita Lolita Martinez, named as "Miss Good Neighbor," inspects the new duraglas jar for coffee.

How to Make Good Coffee

Experts advise American housewives that — excluding, of course, the coffee itself—cleanliness in the coffee pot is the first requisite for making good coffee. They also say: Wash the coffee pot thoroughly after each use, rinsing carefully in hot water. Do not wash the coffee pot in ordinary dish water, and always scald it with boiling water before making coffee. A heaping tablespoon of coffee to each measuring cup of water was further advised. For after-dinner coffee and iced coffee, increase the amount of coffee. Measure accurately for uniform results. Never reheat coffee; always make it fresh. Serve immediately after it's made and use freshly drawn water each time. And, of course, always use the correct grind for your particular type of coffee maker.

These secrets of good coffee-making were given with the final admonition: Don't hoard empty glass containers — they're now so economical that it's wisest to discard them when empty.

Mrs. Bessie Cook, sister of Mrs. G. E. Jeffers, who had been visiting here, went to U. C. at Berkeley Sunday to complete her work for a Ph. D. degree, before returning to Knoxville, Tenn., to teach in the summer session of the University of Tennessee.

Miss Dorothy Merriman, one of the valued members of the Campbell Grammar school faculty is taking special work at the University of California at Berkeley, under Professors Mowrow of Oxford, England, and Elmer Bonds, who are lecturing on the political situation since Versailles. She is also taking a course in Remedial reading.

Misnamed Fish

The little Redfish is one of the true Pacific salmon and is a fresh-water relative of the Sockeye salmon. The U. S. bureau of fisheries has stocked the waters of the Uinta mountains and Star valley in Wyoming with Redfish. Despite its name, the color of the species is a bright silver with a bluish cast on the back and head; there are a few small black spots on the back and tail. The fish gets its name from the fact that, during the fall, it moves upstream to spawn at which time both sexes become red in color, distorted in form, and cease feeding.

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBB

An Appropriate Song Offering

By IRVIN S. COBB

AT a mission service in a Welsh village the minister who, in contrast to many of his flock, was a strict teetotaler, delivered a stirring discourse upon the evils of strong drink.

"My brethren," he stated in conclusion, "if I might have my way about it every drop of intoxicants in this community should be destroyed. In my imagination I behold all the whisky, the beer, the gin, the rum poured upon the waters of the fair stream which courses through our town. We will now sing a hymn. Does any member of the congregation think of a suitable hymn? If so let him name it."

Whereupon a constant imbiber arose, with a feverish thirsty gleam in his eye and announced his choice.

It was: "Shall We Gather at the River?"

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

The California State Federation of Labor, having abandoned its plan to referendum the bill knocking out the secondary boycott and "hot cargo," is preparing, nonetheless, to initiate a proposal which would give labor complete dominance over future sessions of the state legislature.

Canny AFL leaders have admitted (but not for publication) that their abandonment of plans to referendum the legislature's act outlawing the secondary boycott was due to the fact that they were fearful of the results at the polls. And not wanting to risk a turndown from the voters, they have decided to make war on the legislature, instead of its enactments.

The proposal which the AFL will seek to qualify for the 1941 ballot by initiative petition is designed to give the cities complete control of the legislature, to break rural control of the state senate, which is now elected from rural districts, and to destroy those checks and balances that are so necessary to preserve free democracy and protect minority groups within it.

With the Assembly already elected on a population basis, and therefore controlled by urban areas, the proposed labor initiative would abolish the present system under which the senate is districted on a territorial basis, and would place the Senate likewise on a strict population basis.

If adopted, this initiative amendment would virtually disenfranchise 51 rural counties in California, as 16 senators would be elected from Los Angeles county and six from the metropolitan counties of San Francisco and Alameda.

Thus, three metropolitan counties would elect 22 out of 40 senators, and the predominantly urban counties of San Diego, San Bernardino, Santa Clara and Sacramento, each entitled to one senator under the new proposal, would bring the total of urban county senators to 26. As a result, the 51 predominantly rural counties would elect only 14 senators, and each of the proposed senatorial districts would have a population of at least 173,000.

Under the existing plan of legislative representation, patterned after the federal plan, the senate is elected on a territorial basis, and the assembly on a population basis, establishing a balance of power between rural and city districts. The rural counties now elect 33 out of 40 members of the senate, while the urban areas have complete control of the lower house.

It is interesting to note, in view of labor's insistence that California change its system of legislative election, that only 15 out of the 48 states now elect both upper and lower houses of their legislature from districts of equal population. Except for Nebraska, which has a unicameral legislature, the remaining 32 states all elect one house or the other on a territorial basis.

California agriculture has much at stake on the outcome of this contest, for agriculture is still California's most important industry, despite the fact that urban population now overbalances rural population.

The raw materials which have made this state rich still come from rural counties; the wealth of this state still comes from rural lands. True, the raw products are finished in the cities; true, the cities are the marketing centers. But California's fundamental wealth lies in its rural districts.

Is it right to disenfranchise the rural areas of California which have brought this state to greatness? Is it right to permit the processing and distributing centers to dominate the producing areas? Is it right to permit the men who live on the fruits of the soil to dictate to the men who produce the products of the soil?

This writer is willing to leave the answers to those questions to the rank and file voters of California, fully confident of the results if they go to the polls informed as to the basic question at issue.

California agriculture has won its right to its place in the sun by battling all the forces of nature. It certainly won't give up that place simply because some of the handlers of its products wish to dominate the entire industry.

Orchard City Grange

Orchard City Grange No. 333 met for its usual meeting Tuesday, July 8 in Odd Fellows hall, with Worthy Master Millard Hughes presiding.

The Grange was especially honored by the official visit from the district deputy, E. E. Coonradt. He dwelt on the very substantial growth of the national Grange which is this year enjoying its 75th anniversary. This is only done by the united and enthusiastic efforts of the subordinate Granges. Mr. Coonradt also spoke of the very constructive growth of the juvenile Granges throughout the state and of their many activities. It is interesting to note that our own Mervyn Keesling of Campbell has organized a fine orchestra in the juvenile Grange in this community.

Also in its inception is another order of the Grange being organized, to be called "The Young Grangers of America." This membership constitutes the young people between the juvenile and adult ages. All encouragement possible should be given this movement, as it is our youth of today that must be trained and enthused to keep alive the agricultural defenses and new era farming.

The new Grange hall building project received new impetus, Mr. Coonradt giving it a new boost. A very enthusiastic discussion revived the spirit and now it looks as though a dream of 30 years will soon come true.

At this meeting we were also honored by a visit from Helger Hansen, member of the Sierra Valley Grange, who is the official contact manager of the Santa Clara county fair which is to be held Oct. 11-18. A very fine fair is promised. He urges that the Grangers of this county lead out in exhibits of produce, live stock, crafts, and home economics, etc. His remarks were met with good response.

Two committees from Orchard City Grange were appointed to act with committees of other Granges of the county to take responsibility of the exhibits. Named were, men's department, S. N. Hedegard, J. C. Gordon, Lloyd Gardner, Harry Barnes, and W. H. Van Dyke. Women's department, Mesdames Jessie McChesney, Jessie Shelly, M. F. Hughes, Robert Lear, and Mervyn Keesling.

The memory of Past Master Hedley Archibald was honored with impressive rites in the draping of the charter.

Millard Hughes gave a most interesting and instructive report of his visit to and work of the California Polytechnic college at San Luis Obispo. Here young men learn many trades which enable them to work into situations paying as high as $60 per week.

Other interesting reports from various standing committees were given, including one by the chairman of the marketing committee. He gave a very encouraging outlook on the apricot situation. Canners finally, after some juggling, settled on $40 per ton for green fruit. The U. S. government is buying 10,000 tons of dried apricots at 11 and 12 cents per pound.

It was voted that, on account of the heavy working season, the last two meetings of July and August be eliminated. The next meeting will be held Aug. 12 and will be an especially interesting and happy evening. This will be the annual "peach feed" sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Keesling.

Refreshments were served in the banquet room by Mrs. Albert Herschback, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gardner.
